Abstracts

The fashion accessories industry in Nepal has been showing gradual growth in recent years. It is nonetheless hampered by several difficulties that threaten to slow progress or reverse gains achieved thus far.

The sector is largely affected by the same problems troubling the country as a whole. Fragile political and economic environments, inadequate infrastructure, geographical challenges, and dependency on imported raw materials all play a role in keeping development to a minimum.

To mitigate the effects of these external factors, manufacturers of fashion accessories rely on solid design expertise rooted in traditional methods and aesthetic elements derived from the local culture. In addition, they provide comparatively lower quotes and have smaller minimum order requirements.

This report focuses on the main types of fashion accessories from Nepal – jewelry, fashion bags & wallets, headwear & neckwear, and gloves & hosiery.
