Abstracts

The global air purifier filter market size was estimated at USD 2,357.3 million in 2025 and is projected to reach USD 3,365.0 million by 2033, growing at a CAGR of 4.3% from 2026 to 2033. Rising air pollution levels across urban and industrial regions are a major driver for market growth.

Increasing concentrations of particulate matter (PM2.5 and PM10), harmful gases, and allergens have heightened public awareness regarding indoor air quality and its direct impact on health. This has led to a growing adoption of advanced filtration solutions such as HEPA and activated carbon filters in residential as well as commercial spaces.

Expansion of industrialization and stringent environmental and workplace safety regulations are driving market growth. Industries such as manufacturing, pharmaceuticals, and food processing are increasingly required to maintain clean air environments, which has led to higher adoption of industrial-grade filtration systems. At the same time, the rapid growth of e-commerce platforms has improved product accessibility, making air purifier filters more widely available to consumers. Technological advancements, including smart filters with longer lifespans and improved efficiency, are also supporting market growth by encouraging frequent upgrades and replacements across end-use sectors.
