Abstracts

The global alfalfa market size was valued at USD 37.1 billion in 2025 and is projected to grow from USD 39.2 billion in 2026 to USD 57.8 billion in 2033, at a CAGR of 5.7% from 2026 to 2033. North America dominated the global market, accounting for the largest revenue share of 42.0% in 2025. Market growth is driven by rising demand for high-quality forage for livestock, with alfalfa serving as a nutritious feed source for dairy cows, horses, and cattle.

Alfalfa is rich in protein, vitamins, and minerals, making it a high-quality forage source for dairy cows. It provides essential nutrients needed for milk production. The product is a good source of calcium, which is crucial for milk production and maintaining strong bones in dairy cows. It also contains phosphorus, which is important for overall cow health. The fiber in alfalfa can help maintain healthy rumen function in cows, which is essential for digestion and nutrient absorption. Dairy cows typically find the product highly palatable, which can encourage them to consume adequate amounts of feed.

Alfalfa can be planted from seed or using transplants. Seeding is the more common method. The product can be harvested multiple times during the growing season. Timing of the first harvest is critical; it should occur when the plant is in the bud or early bloom stage for optimal nutrient content. After cutting, alfalfa can be dried in the field or processed into haylage or silage for preservation. Proper drying and storage are essential to maintain the quality of the forage.

Global Alfalfa Market Report Segmentation

This report forecasts revenue growth at global, regional, and country levels and provides an analysis of the latest industry trends and opportunities in each of the sub-segments from 2021 to 2033. For this report, Grand View Research has segmented the global alfalfa market report based on type, livestock, and region:

Type Outlook (Volume, Kilotons; Revenue, USD Million, 2021 - 2033)

- Hay Bales
- Cubes
- Pellets
- Others

Livestock Outlook (Volume, Kilotons; Revenue, USD Million, 2021 - 2033)

- Ruminants
- Horses
- Poultry
- Others

Regional Outlook (Volume, Kilotons; Revenue, USD Million, 2021 - 2033)

- North America
- U.S.
- Canada
- Mexico
- Europe
