Abstracts

The global gas compressor market size was valued at USD 5.3 billion in 2025 and is projected to grow from USD 5.4 billion in 2026 to USD 6.8 billion by 2033, at a CAGR of 3.5% from 2026 to 2033. Asia Pacific dominated the market, accounting for a revenue share of 32.8% in 2025. The market is driven by the expansion of natural gas transmission and processing infrastructure, increasing LNG capacity, and continued demand for gas across power generation and industrial operations.

Investments in pipeline networks, LNG terminals, storage facilities, and gas processing plants are generating requirements for reliable compression equipment, while replacement of aging compressor assets is creating demand for modern, energy-efficient systems. The development of hydrogen, carbon capture, and other low-carbon gas infrastructure is also broadening opportunities for specialized compression technologies.

Technological advancements in compressor design are influencing market development, with manufacturers focusing on improving energy efficiency, operational reliability, pressure-handling capabilities, and equipment monitoring. Demand for advanced centrifugal and reciprocating systems is increasing as operators modernize existing compression infrastructure and seek to reduce operating and maintenance costs.
