Abstracts

The global healthcare business banking solutions and services market size was estimated at USD 141.8 billion in 2024 and is projected to reach USD 326.1 billion by 2033, growing at a CAGR of 9.7% from 2025 to 2033. This growth is attributed to rising healthcare digitalization and electronic payments adoption, increasing financial complexity of healthcare providers and systems, and the adoption of mobile and cloud-based corporate banking platforms.

The growth of healthcare business banking solutions is driven by increased digitalization and the widespread adoption of electronic payments. According to the 2025 TrustCommerce survey, nearly 80% of U.S. healthcare consumers are comfortable or open to using digital payment methods for healthcare expenses, and among those aged 60 and older, close to 60% share this confidence. The survey also showed that around 62.5% of respondents have paid for doctor or specialist visits digitally, and about 59.5% have used digital channels to pay for prescriptions. This shift toward digital transactions highlights the move to technology-driven financial processes in healthcare. As providers, pharmacies, and clinics implement online billing and contactless payment systems, banks and fintech companies are developing specialized solutions, including payment gateways, merchant services, and automated revenue management tools, to support this transformation.

The growing complexity of healthcare billing, insurance claims, and reimbursements is driving strong demand for automated revenue cycle and cash flow management tools. Hospitals, clinics, and healthcare networks face delays and administrative burdens in managing payments from patients, insurers, and government programs. Automated solutions integrated with banking platforms help streamline these processes. They enable real-time payment tracking, faster claims reconciliation, and predictive cash-flow forecasting. As healthcare organizations increasingly adopt digital billing and analytics systems, they require banking partners to offer seamless connectivity between financial accounts, EHR systems, and payment gateways. This push toward automation reduces revenue leakage and manual errors. It enhances financial efficiency and drives the adoption of specialized healthcare business banking solutions.
