Healthcare Computerized Maintenance Management System Market Growth & Trends

The global healthcare computerized maintenance management system market size is expected to reach USD 494.9 million by 2030, according to a new report by Grand View Research, Inc. The market is expected to grow at a CAGR of 11.25% from 2023 to 2030. The increasing complexity of healthcare systems, regulatory compliance requirements, and emphasis on preventive maintenance have all contributed to the rising demand for CMMS solutions. The healthcare industry is becoming more complex with a wide range of medical equipment, devices, and systems. CMMS solutions help healthcare organizations effectively manage and maintain their equipment, ensure regulatory compliance, reduce downtime, optimize costs, and enhance operational efficiency.

As the healthcare industry continues to evolve and prioritize efficiency and patient care, the adoption of CMMS systems is expected to grow significantly. Hospitals are the primary users of CMMS solutions. Furthermore, diagnostic centers, including radiology and imaging centers, utilize CMMS solutions to manage and maintain their specialized equipment, such as MRI machines, CT scanners, and X-ray machines. Owing to the benefits offered by CMMS software, their adoption in hospitals and other facilities is increasing. The growing number of small independent healthcare facilities with the same accreditation requirements as large-scale hospitals is boosting market growth.

The COVID-19 pandemic has had a significant impact on the market. It has highlighted the importance of efficient maintenance management in healthcare facilities to ensure the reliable functioning of critical equipment. This has led to an increased demand for CMMS solutions as healthcare providers prioritize maintenance and safety protocols. In the coming years, the incorporation of AI into CMMS to take key decisions, such as resource allocation, scheduling maintenance, and illustration impact on business, is expected to create new growth opportunities for the market.
