Abstracts

The global heat pump compressor market size was estimated at USD 32.1 billion in 2025 and is projected to reach USD 71.1 billion by 2033, growing at a CAGR of 10.6% from 2026 to 2033. Policy support and climate targets are accelerating market growth.

Several countries have introduced incentives, subsidies, and regulatory frameworks encouraging the deployment of heat pump systems in both new buildings and retrofit applications. As these initiatives continue to expand, manufacturers are increasing production of heat pump components, including compressors designed for high efficiency and compatibility with low-global-warming-potential refrigerants.

Continuous innovation in compressor technologies is supporting the growth of the heat pump compressor market. Manufacturers are introducing advanced compressor designs such as scroll, rotary, and inverter-driven compressors that offer improved efficiency, reduced noise levels, and enhanced durability. These innovations enable heat pump systems to operate efficiently across a wider range of temperature conditions, including colder climates where heat pump performance has traditionally been limited.
