Abstracts

The U.S. billiards & accessories market size was estimated at USD 89.3 million in 2024 and is projected to reach USD 110.7 million by 2033, growing at a CAGR of 2.4% from 2025 to 2033. As more consumers invest in home recreation, including dedicated game rooms, the demand for billiards tables and accessories has increased.

This shift is particularly noticeable as consumers seek ways to enhance their home leisure spaces, resulting in higher sales of both premium tables and specialized accessories. The increasing popularity of billiards in commercial venues also fuels the U.S. billiards & accessories industry's growth. Sports bars, lounges, resorts, and entertainment centers are incorporating billiards as part of their broader social and recreational offerings, creating a demand for multiple tables and accessories per venue. Billiards is no longer just a casual game in bars; it has become a key component of social gatherings, with commercial venues investing in higher-end equipment to provide a premium experience for their customers.

Another major factor contributing to the market's expansion is the growing trend of product innovation. Manufacturers are introducing high-quality, premium cues, custom-designed billiards tables, and accessories that appeal to both serious players and collectors. The introduction of smart and interactive pool tables is also opening up new market opportunities, with tech-savvy consumers seeking connected experiences that integrate digital features such as automated scoring and augmented reality. These innovations are not only driving sales of billiards tables but also contributing to the growth of accessory markets such as high-end cues, balls, racks, and maintenance kits. The younger demographic, particularly Millennials and Gen Z, is also playing a key role in the growth of the billiards market. These generations are increasingly seeking out alternative forms of entertainment, and billiards offers a social and engaging experience that aligns with their lifestyle preferences. As these younger consumers invest in home game rooms and seek out recreational activities outside of traditional video games, the demand for billiards tables and accessories is expected to continue rising.

Moreover, the increasing popularity of competitive play, including amateur leagues and tournaments, is helping to position billiards as not just a recreational activity but a serious hobby for many enthusiasts. This is driving demand for high-performance equipment and accessories, as players seek out the best tools to enhance their skills and performance. As the competitive aspect of billiards grows, more players are willing to invest in premium products, further fueling market expansion.
