Andalusite is an aluminum nesosilicate mineral which belongs to sillimanite family and is generally found in metamorphic rocks. It is a polymorph of two minerals including sillimanite and kyanite. Being polymorphic in nature, it has a chemical composition which is similar to sillimanite and kyanite with dissimilar physical structure. Asia Pacific is expected to be the one of the largest andalusite market owing to the growing demand for refractories in the region, particularly in emerging economies including India and China. At present, China is the key producer and consumer of refractories, primarily fueled by the presence of a robust steel industry. Vietnam, Philippines, Indonesia, Turkey and Russia are potential andalusite markets which are expected to grow and sustain over the next seven years. Latin America is anticipated to witness significant growth over the forecast period owing to the growing demand for andalusite-based cement refractories on account infrastructure development in the region. Europe and North America are likely to be the moderate players in the consumption of refractories over the forecast period.
