Avocado puree is a kind of fruit puree made from avocado. Many companies in North America and Europe are launching smoothie and juice products prepared from purees in powder form, with added minerals and nutrients. These companies are selling these products directly to their customers. Purees also have various food and beverage applications, which will increase the significance of these products in households. In Asia Pacific, the demand for processed food products is growing with a massive increase in the growth rate. Many processed food products are created from purees, which give an edge to the puree market against fruits. People living in urban areas live a fast-paced life and tend to buy prepared food and beverage products from stores as these are both convenient and time saving. Changing lifestyle of the people is expected to create a strong market for the processed food and beverage industry and is helping the food ingredients market to grow, which includes purees such as avocado puree.
