Abstracts

The total Japanese orthopedic trauma market will exceed $560 million by 2016.

This report covers the Japanese market for:

Plates and screws

Intramedullary nails

Intramedullary hip screws

Compression hip screws

Cannulated screws

External fixation devices

In 2009, plates and screws represented the largest segment in the trauma market and experienced high growth due to a rapid increase in the use of titanium, hybrid and mini fragment plates in the extremities.

Within the European orthopedic trauma market, companies such as Depuy, Stryker, Synthes and Zimmer lead the market, among many others. This report provides a comprehensive and detailed analysis of market revenues by device type, market forecasts through 2016, unit sales, average selling prices, market drivers and limiters and a detailed competitive analysis, including manufacturer market shares and product portfolios.
