Abstracts

The global collagen supplement market size reached US$ 2.3 Billion in 2023. Looking forward, IMARC Group expects the market to reach US$ 3.4 Billion by 2032, exhibiting a growth rate (CAGR) of 4.39% during 2024-2032.

Collagen supplements are used to add more collagen to the diet for preventing collagen deficiency. They comprise amino acids, proteins, vitamin C, biotin, and zinc that are available in the form of tablets, capsules, and powders. They help reduce the effects of aging by adding moisture to the skin, reducing wrinkles, and improving elasticity. They assist in restoring or preventing the deterioration of the cartilage in joints. They also aid in increasing muscle mass and preventing bone loss. Apart from this, they offer several benefits, such as maintaining a healthy gut, enhancing a healthy weight, reducing anxiety, and promoting healthy nail and hair growth.

Collagen Supplement Market Trends:

At present, the growing prevalence of various diseases, such as arthritis, inflammatory bone diseases, and rheumatoid arthritis, across the globe represents one of the key factors driving the market. Besides this, the rising awareness among the masses about the benefits of collagen supplements to prevent collagen deficiency in the body is contributing to the growth of the market. In addition, the increasing consumption of collagen supplements to enhance the growth of hair, skin, nails, bones, tendons, muscles, ligaments, joints, and other organs is positively influencing the market. Moreover, the wide availability of collagen supplements through online and offline distribution channels is offering lucrative growth opportunities to industry investors. Apart from this, there is a rise in the adoption of veganism to reduce animal slaughter around the world. This, along with the growing utilization of collagen supplements in the food and beverage (F&B) industry, is offering a positive market outlook. Additionally, key market players are extensively investing in research and development (R&D) activities to introduce bovine-sourced supplements that are used for treating ortho diseases, such as osteoporosis and scoliosis, which is bolstering the growth of the market.
