The global diaper market size reached US$ 78.9 Billion in 2022. Looking forward, IMARC Group expects the market to reach US$ 124.5 Billion by 2028, exhibiting a growth rate (CAGR) of 8% during 2023-2028.

A diaper is an undergarment made of absorbent material that allows wearers to urinate and defecate without the usage of a toilet. It is made using various fabrics, such as cotton, hemp, tissue paper, and synthetic disposable materials. It has an inner lining of polypropylene, which aids in improving fluid absorption and protecting the outer cloth from being soiled. It helps remove moisture and minimize skin allergies, rashes, and infections among infants and persons with disabilities. Presently, diaper is widely available in numerous shapes and sizes to meet the requirement of individuals.

Diaper Market Trends:

At present, the rising occurrence of skin diseases among babies and the growing awareness among parents about the benefits of maintaining early childhood hygiene represent one of the key factors catalyzing the demand for diapers across the globe. This, along with the increasing prevalence of functional and cognitive impairment and urinary tract infections (UTIs), is driving the sales of diapers. Besides this, the expansion of organized distribution channels and the shifting consumer reliance on online shopping platforms to get exciting discounts and ease of delivery are offering lucrative growth opportunities to manufacturers. Furthermore, leading market players are focusing on introducing plant-based and eco-friendly diapers made without chemicals and toxic skincare ingredients. They are also focusing on incorporating nanotechnology and manufacturing smart diapers with sensors to detect leakage automatically. Moreover, continuous investments by key players in celebrity endorsements and social media promotions to expand their consumer base are currently favoring the growth of the market.
