Abstracts

The global guacamole market size reached US$ 1.2 Billion in 2022. Looking forward, IMARC Group expects the market to reach US$ 1.8 Billion by 2028, exhibiting a growth rate (CAGR) of 7.3% during 2023-2028. Rapid urbanization, the increasing working population, and the rising demand for convenient meals represent some of the key factors driving the market.

Guacamole is a creamy spread or dip made from avocados, lime, onion, chili pepper, garlic, tomato, and seasonings like salt and black pepper. Avocados, the main ingredient in guacamole, are packed with nutrients that can improve brain and liver function, minimize liver damage, promote heart health, prevent strokes, and fight inflammation. Additionally, avocados are a good source of healthy fats that can promote satiety and help individuals stay fuller for longer, which can aid in weight management and reduce visceral abdominal fat. As a result, it serves as a popular condiment and salad ingredient in numerous dishes, adding flavor, creaminess, and nutrition to various culinary creations.

Guacamole Market Trends:

The global guacamole market is experiencing growth due to several factors, including rapid urbanization, an increasing working population, and the rising demand for convenient meals. Moreover, the surging trend of international cuisines and the expansion of fast-food restaurants are facilitating the demand for guacamole in sandwiches, burritos, and salads, which is favoring the market growth. Additionally, the shifting consumer preference towards healthier lifestyles and the consumption of wholesome foods are boosting the market growth. In line with this, the escalating demand for plant-based food products and nutrition-packed snacks served with dips, such as guacamole, are positively influencing the market growth. Furthermore, the penetration of social media platforms and the trend of food vlogging are other factors contributing to the market growth.
