Abstracts

The global kosher food market reached a value of US$ 19.9 Billion in 2021. Looking forward, IMARC Group expects the market to reach US$ 24.8 Billion by 2027, exhibiting a CAGR of 3.8% during 2022-2027. Keeping in mind the uncertainties of COVID-19, we are continuously tracking and evaluating the direct as well as the indirect influence of the pandemic. These insights are included in the report as a major market contributor.

Kosher foods are food and beverages that are produced conforming to the Jewish dietary regulations. Kosher food laws necessitate absolute isolation of milk and meat-based products derived from seafood, meats of pigs, rabbits, camels, kangaroos and horses, predatory birds and ruminant animals. It involves the use of meat, dairy and pareve products obtained through ritualistic manner for the manufacturing of breads, pastas, juices, cereals, frozen meals, snacks and energy drinks. Kosher foods usually have various benefits, such as higher quality and safety standards and minimal risks of developing E. Coli. They also aid in lowering blood cholesterol levels and are suitable for vegetarian consumers.

Kosher Food Market Trends:

The increasing prevalence of lactose intolerance among the masses is one of the key factors driving the growth of the market. Kosher food is highly beneficial for individuals suffering from celiac disease and dairy and gluten intolerance. Moreover, the rising demand for kosher food products among non-Jewish consumers is also providing a thrust to the market growth. The consumer preference is rapidly shifting toward allergen-free, clean labels and organic food products. Food manufacturers are increasingly utilizing kosher food products for the production of snacks and savory items, such as rolls, wraps, sandwiches, bread, nachos, crackers, chips, gushers and peanut butter, along with bakery and confectionery products, including cookies, pies, pastries and muffins. Additionally, the increasing consumer demand for ethically and locally sourced ingredients is another growth-inducing factor. Quick service restaurants (QSRs), hotels and cafes are also experimenting with high-quality kosher-certified foods to provide a unique and authentic experience to their customers. Other factors, including rising health consciousness among the masses, along with the increasing demand for vegan dietary products, are anticipated to drive the market toward growth.
