Abstracts

The global online beauty and personal care products market size reached US$ 59.3 Billion in 2023. Looking forward, IMARC Group expects the market to reach US$ 132.7 Billion by 2032, exhibiting a growth rate (CAGR) of 9.1% during 2024-2032.

Beauty and personal care products assist in enhancing the physical appearance, maintaining health and hygiene, and boosting the overall self-esteem of individuals. Some of the commonly used beauty and personal care products are moisturizers, soaps, cleansers, toothpaste, hair dyes, perfumes, facial tissues, lipsticks and feminine hygiene products. At present, rapid urbanization and increasing internet penetration are boosting the sales of these products through online distribution channels, which offer a wide selection of brands, as well as quick and efficient shipping and return policies.

Hectic lifestyles of individuals are positively influencing the demand for a convenient and hassle-free shopping experience. This represents one of the significant factors driving online beauty and personal care products market growth. Furthermore, the growing trend of vertical markets, along with the inflating income levels and improving standards of living, are escalating the demand for premium product variants. Vertical markets generally offer exotic brands, signature collections and convenient cross-category shopping in established brands. Other than this, the rising influence of social media and the willingness of consumers to try out different brands is encouraging several players to engage in aggressive promotional campaigns. These players are also investing in product packaging and research and development (R&D) activities to introduce organic and chemical-free products. Besides this, they are focusing on the launch of products using ingredients that cater to the personal care needs of different customers based on their preferences and skin and hair type. In addition to this, several prominent e-retailers are offering additional benefits, such as same-day or one-day delivery services, better security features for online payments, and easy-to-navigate dashboard, to expand their existing consumer base.
