Abstracts

The global therapeutic beds market size reached US$ 4.3 Billion in 2022. Looking forward, IMARC Group expects the market to reach US$ 5.8 Billion by 2028, exhibiting a growth rate (CAGR) of 4.85% during 2023-2028.

Clinical therapeutic beds are specially designed beds that provide maximum patient comfort and improve healthcare delivery. These beds are intended to be used in controlled clinical environments, such as nursing homes, diagnostic laboratories, and outpatient clinics. Additional positioning aids, such as pads, pillows, and wedges, are also included with these adjustable beds. When compared to regular beds, these beds and mattresses are designed to lower acupoints, regulate body temperature, prevent bedsores, and improve blood flow. In addition to this, they are equipped with advanced features, such as electronic elevation, side rails, and wheels, thereby providing portability and safety for patients. In the event of surgery, injury, or degenerative disease, therapy beds fulfill the comfort and positioning needs associated with the medical condition.

Therapeutic Beds Market Trends:

The global market is majorly driven by continual technological advancements in the healthcare sector. This can be attributed to the extensive research and development (R&D) activities conducted by the key players focusing on introducing innovative product variants. In addition to this, a considerable rise in consumer awareness regarding health and wellness is acting as a significant growth-inducing factor for the market. The market is further propelled by the rising geriatric population susceptible to developing several chronic illnesses and requiring longer hospital stays. In line with this, the expanding medical expenditure and growing funding by public and private agencies to improve the overall healthcare infrastructure are acting as other major growth-inducing factors. Some of the other factors contributing to the market include the escalating demand for preoperative and postoperative critical care services, the rising prevalence of lifestyle-related diseases, growing expenditure on patient care, and increasing investments for improving the number of beds to patient ratio.
