Americas A2P SMS Market – Drivers, Opportunities, Trends, and Forecasts: 2016–2022

The Americas is the fastest growing economy and quickly adopts the advanced technologies when compared to other economies in the world. The Americas will remain as an attractive market for enterprises due to the increase in the ICT spending, demand for advanced products, solutions, and technology among the consumers, enterprises, and public sector. A2P SMS is set to be an effective messaging channel for enterprises to reach their customer and thereby increase their sales revenue and brand image in the market. The increase in the adoption of mobile technologies in various verticals has led the demand for the A2P SMS services. The A2P SMS stakeholders – content providers, content publishers, mobile app developers, service providers, brands, advertisers, and MNOs – have huge business opportunities in the market.

North America is set to be the topmost region for new mobile technology adoption and most of the players are expanding their business by merger & acquisition activities and innovating new products/services in the market. Further, the telecom players are continuing to invest in mobile technologies in order to capture the revenue in the growing mobile segment. Over the past few years, few of the American countries have seen a decline in the mobile subscriber base, but mobile data traffic has been increasing due to the increasing adoption of advanced and smart technologies.

According to Infoholic Research, the “Americas A2P SMS Market” is estimated to witness a CAGR of 6.2 % during the forecast period 2016–2022. Americas is the leading market for adopting new technologies – smart technologies, mobile applications, and IoT. There is an increase in the mobile internet subscriber base, digital advertising, mobile network infrastructure, and mobile messaging services; these factors are driving the A2P SMS market growth.
