Abstracts

Despite some economic uncertainty, the Asia Pacific information market is expected to offer the strongest growth opportunities for information and content companies over the next few years but detailed information on market trends and characteristics, current suppliers, and market drivers and obstacles is still relatively limited. This new report published by IRN Research in the first week of May in association with Tai-Pan Research includes:

A Market Overview focusing on economic and business trends in the region, and the regional business information market size and trends.

Market Reviews of business information markets in China, Hong Kong, India, Japan, & Singapore with profiles of key players, recent developments.

Profiles of key players operating across the region including operations & strategies of global information businesses in the region and indigenous players.

Future Trends including an assessment of key market drivers and obstacles.

An Appendix listing all key providers in the region and contact details.
