The Asia Pacific Air Humidifier Market would witness market growth of 6.44% CAGR during the forecast period (2019–2025).

Adverse health issues including respiratory distress, nose and throat lining, dry skin, cracked lips, and dry cough have increased the consumption of the product. Utilization of air humidifier in hospitals has spurred owing to the requirement of prevention from biological contaminants. Low humidity leads to static electricity problem causing accumulation of small dust and textile particles on electrically charged surfaces that destroys semiconductor devices. Computer microchips get damaged with static discharge over 10 volts. Compact disks get damaged with the release of static discharge causing irreplaceable loss. In addition, papers and artworks become brittle in low humidity conditions that hinder the working of copiers and printers further enhancing the air humidifier market share during the forecast period.
