Abstracts

The Asia Pacific Dental Practice Management Software Market would witness market growth of 11.12% CAGR during the forecast period (2019-2025).

The cloud-based business segment is projected to grow at a robust growth rate over the forecast duration. Increased adoption of cloud-based solutions to meet the growing trend of patient-centricity would drive segmental growth. Cloud-based software allows data access at multiple locations and encourages patient satisfaction and strengthened clinical outcomes to be achieved, boosting demand in the coming years. In India, a significant increase has been observed in the population of geriatrics with oral disorders, increased sensitivity to healthcare and favorable policies. For example, improving the software management system of the Indian Dental Association (IDA) to regularly register online dental staff would boost the market growth.

Software-provided applications improve dentists' efficiency and productivity. Moreover, features like scheduling appointments, tooth charting, reminder service, electronic health records, payment, and more fuel the dental practice management software market. In addition, the growing aging population and increasing spending on oral health care also accelerate market growth. Nonetheless, market growth may be limited by high initial set-up costs. Technological advancement in dentistry, the projected increase in coverage for oral health insurance, and government initiatives could drive the industry growth over the forecast period.

Based on Deployment Mode, the market is segmented into Web Based, Cloud Based and On Premise. Based on countries, the market is segmented into China, Japan, India, South Korea, Singapore, Malaysia, and Rest of Asia Pacific.
