Abstracts

The Asia Pacific Foot Care Products Market would witness market growth of 8.8% CAGR during the forecast period (2020-2026).

There is a growing requirement for foot care products that are helpful in maintaining better aesthetics and hygiene. Fast fluctuating lifestyle and altering fashion have augmented the skin exposure of feet, therefore leading to increasing demands for foot care products. These products have expanded more popular especially among women owing to the growing trend of open-toe shoes and sandals. Currently, consumers are probing for foot cleansing lotions, creams, repair ointments, and sloughing scrub which can show instant results.

Mature baby boomers, a surge in the number of diabetic patients, and bacterial infections are the key factors that are boosting the growth of the global foot care products market. In addition to it, the rise in awareness, personal hygiene & fashion trends is some of the common trends followed in society. For instance, the pedicure is gradually adopted by people. Several foot care devices, gels, creams, tools, and medicines are widely used by podiatry professionals, pedicure centers, and diagnostic centers.

Primary players in the market are aiming straight supply of their products through approved outlets and online portals. These key players are concentrating on encouraging their exclusive product offerings and delivering them through the sales channel. The implementation of direct supply strategies is expected to give strong revenue growth in the market foot care products prospect for the foot care products market in the coming years. The outbreak of the COVID-19 pandemic has a negative impact on the worldwide foot care products trade. Furthermore, owing to the rise in the supply-demand gap, the expenses of foot care products are expected to increase in the year 2020 to astound on economic instability. Additionally, the commotion of the supply chain in shipping can also cause a temporary shortage in supply, which in turn will surge in prices of foot care products.
