Abstracts

The Asia Pacific Kombucha Market would witness market growth of 20.2% CAGR during the forecast period (2019-2025).

Kombucha is rich in human body-produced bacterial acids and enzymes and uses them to detoxify the organ, thereby reducing the pancreatic load and relieving the liver burden. The accelerated awareness about kombucha's health benefits is expected to drive demand for the product in dietary supplements, which in turn is expected to drive the market growth over the forecast period. Kombucha originated in China or Japan in the first place. It can be made of different kinds of bacteria, yeast, and sugar to black or green tea, which may be fermented for a week or more in which the bacteria and yeast form a mushroom-like film on the layer of the liquid. Therefore, it is also called as the 'mushroom tea'.

Asia-Pacific is showing the fastest growth in the Kombucha industry. China has emerged as one of the leading kombucha markets of Asia Pacific. Packaged kombucha drinks in China remain popularly attributed to their perceived health benefits. In India, it is also seen that the population suffering from joint health problems such as arthritis are attracted more towards kombucha, which is anticipated to drive the growth of the kombucha market during the forecast period. Due to an increase in urbanization in the region, as well as the widespread availability of kombucha in local retail shelves are boosting the growth of the region's kombucha market.
