Abstracts

Mosquitos are considered as the most dangerous insects and could spread diseases such as dengue, malaria, yellow fever, zika fever, and others. These diseases can be harmful to human healthy and sometimes lead to death. Mosquito Repellent could work as a solution for the same. Mosquito repellent is a substance that is applied to the skin, cloths or any other shells that drives mosquitos away. Mosquito repellent protects an individual from harmful mosquito bites, mites or ticks.

Mosquitos repellent are available in different forms such as coils, sprays and others. However, new products with innovative designs have been coming up; for instance, anti-mosquito repellent wrist band is one of the innovative products which is waterproof and is effective in driving mosquitos away. The product is available in different colors and brands. Additionally, LG Technology has launched a mosquito repellent TV last year in India. The product is equipped with an Ultra Sonic device that drives out mosquitoes once activated.

The factors driving the mosquito repellent market are global warming and growing incidences of mosquito-borne diseases. Additionally, rising awareness among the government and health officials about the need to control mosquitos, growing demand for natural products, and growing health concerns among the population base are some of the other factors driving the growth of mosquito repellent market. However, slow adoption in rural regions has become one of the major restrain for the growth of mosquito repellent market.
