Abstracts

Over the last years, rise in the concept of pet or animal health has been a major concern in many economies. Growing awareness of linkages that exist between animal health, human health, and safety have gained importance all over the world.

Government is also playing a major role by building newer systems for animal health management. On the other hand, many non-profit organizations are also taking initiatives by rescuing and also by promoting to care the stray dogs. In the recent years, growing trend towards nuclear families has been seen. Over the past decades, major social trend in marriages and increasing work related stress has altered the structure of families in most big cities all over the world.
