Abstracts

Technologies such as radio-frequency identification (RFID) and near field communication (NFC) are employed to make contactless transactions. The leading contactless payment platforms around the world are EMV (Europay, MasterCard® and Visa®) chips. The chips are embedded with technologies that can promote a safe and secure environment and combat deceptive actions at early stages. Additionally, the chips also promote a protective environment that is vital for sensitive payment transactions. Due to seamless integration, faster transaction is made possible, as no monogram or PIN authentication is essential for conducting financial transactions. The data from the UK Cards Association confirms that in March 2016 almost £1,508.4 million was spent through contactless payment modes by citizens of UK. Also, debit cards were the most preferred instrument over other payment instruments in the UK.
