Abstracts

The Europe Dried Fruit Market would witness market growth of 6.8% CAGR during the forecast period (2020-2026).

Consumers' inclination towards consuming processed nutritional food products adds fuel to the dried fruit market. It is gaining popularity in the food processing industry due to the rising nutritional level of the drug, towards application in various food lines. Hypersensitivity to certain fruits, nevertheless, followed by the loss of a certain percentage of vitamins during the dehydration process, may hinder the dried fruit market over the forecast period.

Because of their nutritional benefits & tastes, dried fruits are vital snacks as well as additives to various kinds of food items. In addition, dried fruit is an essential part of the Mediterranean people's main diet. The massive consumption of dry fruit has been linked with the prevention of conditions including type 2 diabetes, cardiac problems, and metabolic syndrome. In addition, in various countries dried fruits like raisins, prunes, apricots, figs, apples, dates, and peaches are eaten. Besides this, the key principle of fruit drying is not only to reduce the moisture but also to prevent the microorganism from multiplying and to avoid spoilage.
