Abstracts

The Europe Field Device Management (FDM) Market would witness market growth of 6.6% CAGR during the forecast period (2019-2025).

The FDM solutions are now being adopted extensively for the production of smart factories and other applications based on the industrial internet of things (IIoT), which provides enormous scope for this market's growth. IIoT provides manufacturers with efficient and high-speed systems at reduced prices, which positively affects the market for these solutions/services as it involves the implementation of such advanced automation systems. Automation companies concentrate on investments in the production of IIoT technologies to incorporate Industry 4.0 and support full automation in their industries. The growth in IIoT applications thus generates the enormous need for field device management solutions.

There has been a significant increase in investment amongst different industries in smart devices, which has an impact on the need for FDM systems. In order to address bulk productions, smarter machines have been launched to boost work flexibility and minimize manual tasks and process complexity. Therefore, FDM systems help to reduce manual tasks and remote configuration of smart devices and tools, along with complementing the increasing digitalization and use of smart devices in manufacturing as well as other automation processes.
