Abstracts

The Europe Knee Braces Market would witness market growth of 3.85% CAGR during the forecast period (2019-2025).

European countries have a huge population involved in various sports, such as football, volleyball, basketball, rock climbing, bike racing, boating, etc., with an inherent risk of serious injury or tear due to extreme training programs. Roughly six in 1,000 unintentional fatal injuries are estimated to be attributable to sports like water sports, rock climbing, or horse-related sports. Musculoskeletal diseases are inflammatory and/or degenerative diseases impacting all sectors and all worker categories. The largest European occupational health survey found that 46% of European employees reported back pain, while 43% had strained shoulder, neck and upper limb muscles.

Increased awareness of the effectiveness of knee braces in providing support, pain relief, and improvement of bone structure will also increase the uptake of knee braces to rehabilitate various knee instabilities. This growing awareness and adoption of orthopedic braces will be a crucial trend in the market growth for the knee braces technology.

Sudden meniscus tears are the most widespread knee injuries, particularly among athletes involved in contact sports or pivoting sports. Degenerative meniscus tears are common among older people whose tissues are weakened and worn by aging. Meniscus tears can lead to swelling, pain, instability, and stiffness of the knee. Knee braces offer support and stability and restore the proper functioning of the knees of people who suffer from meniscus injuries. The unloader knee brace is used for meniscus tears on one side, while the hinged knee brace is being used for meniscus tears on both sides.
