Abstracts

The Europe Sleep Apnea Devices Market would witness market growth of 6.8% CAGR during the forecast period (2019-2025).

The best way to treat obstructive sleep apnea (OSA) is via the CPAP machine. Oral appliance therapy is an alternative treatment. One appliance resembles a mouthguard. The tongue is stabilized by another dental device. Oral appliance therapy in patients diagnosed with obstructive sleep apnea is progressively being used as a non-invasive treatment option. The prescribed types of oral appliances are the custom-made titratable mandibular advancement devices (MAD). Mandibular advancement devices are effective in minimizing the frequency of obstructive sleep apnea, while using continuous positive airway pressure (CPAP) only to a lesser degree than regular therapy.

Actigraphy devices (actometer or actimeter) use a portable unit, typically worn on the wrist, which tracks physical activity over a longer period of time. This technology is progressively being used in clinical settings, because actigraphy has the benefit of providing accurate information about the sleep patterns in the regular sleep environment of patients.

Advancements in sleep apnea research contributed to the development of many common apnea treatments for sleep. Moreover, many companies are involved in the development of sophisticated equipment that increases demand for this equipment. Largely untapped opportunities in emerging countries can, over time, accelerate sector growth. Awareness and favorable reimbursement may increase acceptance among humans of devices related to sleep apnea disorders.
