Abstracts

The Global Airless Packaging Market size is expected to reach $6.1 billion by 2023, rising at a market growth of 6.4% CAGR during the forecast period. An airless packaging system is a non-pressurized device used in dispensing pump, and also provides high restitution rate & low wastage, avoiding backflow of air in the system. Airless packaging products have witnessed rapid adoption due to growing demand for natural and organic products, growing sales volume of homecare products, and growing applications of personal care & food & beverages. Additionally, government regulations and legislations pertaining to reducing pollutants and growing awareness about eco-friendly products would contribute to the market growth. However, high production cost associated with the airless packaging products would be a threat to the market growth.
