The Global Network Security Software Market size is expected to reach $24.7 billion by 2025, rising at a market growth of 11.6% CAGR during the forecast period.

Network security software is designed to improve a network's safety. There are many distinct kinds of network security software that assist protect data in transit, data at rest, and other network configuration elements. Network security software consists of instruments for real-time monitoring of a network to avoid unauthorized access, data leakage or other threats. These tools can focus on endpoint security, where network information is displayed on machines, or internal security, where different threats occur within the network itself. In addition, elements of core network applications are regarded by some as a different type of network security software, such as patches and operating system security updates.

The key market players of global network security software market are taking significant initiatives to obtain a cutting-edge among the competition. For instance, in June 2019, Cisco introduced Artificial Intelligence (AI) Network Analytics to allow IT teams to operate at machine velocity and scale through personalized network ideas. Cisco also introduced technologies to efficiently handle customers and applications across the entire business network — from campus networks and Wide Area Networks (WANs) to information centers and the IoT edge. In changing the network security software industry landscape, the services segment will play an important part and will expand during the forecast period. Network security software services support organizations across different verticals with consultations, design and implementation, and training and support in order to efficiently address network threats and therefore guarantee safety across enterprise networks.
