Abstracts

The Latin America, Middle East and Africa Warehouse Order Picking Market would witness market growth of 10.3% CAGR during the forecast period (2019-2025). The increased demand for warehouse automation to minimize response time and increase efficiency in order fulfillment is the key driver of market growth. In addition, the continued growth of the e-commerce sector has led to a growing number of distribution centers around the world, thus improving the deployment of order picking systems.

Robots have enhanced their level of intelligence and versatility exponentially over the past few years after machine learning and artificial intelligence (AI) came into existence. Such developments result in a new robot design that is ideal for operating side by side with pickers from warehouses. Advanced robots in warehouses are engineered to complement traditional processes of picking. These robots are designed to operate on the floor, mostly in the same spaces where associates are at work. In this version of robots, a task is allocated and the pick location is automatically navigated.
