Abstracts

Mobile device management (MDM) is a type of security software, which is used by the IT department to monitor, manage and secure employees' mobile devices, which are deployed across multiple mobile operating systems. MDM tools can be used by both company-owned and employee-owned (BYOD) devices or mobile devices owned by consumers. The type of restrictions and the level of the relaxation have been a concern for both employees and employers, as employers and employees have different expectations concerning the types of restrictions that should be applied to mobile devices. By controlling and protecting the data and configuration settings of all mobile devices in a network, the mobile device management system can significantly reduce support cost and business challenges. The primary purpose of MDM is to optimize the functionality and security of a mobile communications network, and at the same time, minimizing cost and downtime. With mobile devices becoming ubiquitous and applications flooding the market, mobile monitoring has gained prominence over the years. Vendors have been working with mobile device manufacturers, content portals and with developers and assist in testing and monitoring the delivery of their mobile content, applications and services in real-time.

Based on the type, the Mobile Device Management market is segmented into Solution and Services. The Solution market is further segmented into Device Management, Application Management, Security Management, Network Service Management and Others.
