Abstracts

The global timing devices market is expected to grow at a CAGR of 6.84% over the forecast period to reach a total market size of US$7.694 billion by 2025, increasing from US$5.173 billion in 2019. Timing devices are found in almost all electronic devices that are used to provide timing signals to transmit information at the ideal time and speed to provide ceaseless synchronizing signals; these electronic timers are equipped with the balanced electronic motors and powered by the external source of the altering current. The timing devices market is expected to grow due to growing smart grid technology and continuous technological upgradations. The rising adoption of mobile devices along with the rising demand for medical and healthcare equipment is driving the growth of the market. Moreover, the growing adoption of advanced automotive electronics along with increasing demand for mobile gadgets is further contributing to the significant growth of the market. The opportunities like the development of LTE and 5G technology and evaluation of MEMS-based Oscillators are expected to fuel the timing devices market. However, high development cost along with the difficulty in achieving customization is expected to restrain the growth of the market in the coming years.

Growing middle-class population

The middle-class population in developing countries like China, India, and Brazil are growing which is increasing demand for consumer electronics that uses timing devices especially among millennials and the young population. Rapid urbanization and growing disposable income have also attracted major market players to invest in new product launches (in the telecom and communication industry), thus propelling the market growth opportunities over the forecast period. Furthermore, the timing devices are used in high-end smartphones, laptops, tablets, smart tv, among other electronics, and with the continuous development of new technology the demand is exponentially increasing.

Major market players frequently launch their advanced timing devices in consumer electronics which is quite popular among the middle-class population in the developing economies. Besides, with a growing trend of consumer behavior towards advance products and desire for sophisticated products is further helping the timing devices manufacturers and vendors to grow during the forecast period.

Application segment insight

By application timing devices market is segmented based on industrial, consumer electronics, telecommunications, automotive, healthcare, and others. Consumer electronics and automotive are expected to hold a significant share in the market on account of the increasing adoption of advanced automated time devices in both industries. In consumer electronics, the availability of budget smartphones coupled with the rising number of players in the market is expected to drive the growth of the market during the forecast period. In addition, timing devices are widely used in automotive navigation, infotainment systems, and safety control systems among others, and in recent years there is an exponential growth in the demand for timing devices in the automotive industry. Growing trend and adoption of self-driving cars and vehicle automation by manufacturers is further anticipated to propel the market growth opportunities in the coming years.

Recent update

In May 2019, EPSON launched M-A352 accelerometer sensing technology for structural health monitoring.

In March 2019, IDT Launches the Clock-Matrix Family of timing devices to accelerate wireless carriers 5G Network Migration. It delivers the most efficient timing performance that exceeds the 5G requirements for time precision while only requiring minimal changes to existing equipment designs. Also, these devices are already being used in major 5G base stations, switches, routers among other networking equipment.

In August 2018, Murata has expanded its business by investing 5 billion Yen in MEMS sensor in Finland.

The Asia Pacific is holding a significant share in the market

By geography, the global timing devices market is segmented as North America, South America, Europe, the Middle East and Africa, and the Asia Pacific. The Asia Pacific is expected to hold a significant share in the market owing to the presence of major players coupled with established automotive and semiconductor industries in the region. In addition, rising disposable income coupled with the growing adoption of timing devices in the healthcare industry is further anticipated to boost the growth of the market in the region. North American region is anticipated to witness significant growth on account of early adoption of technology and growing investment in research and development by players in the region. Besides, The European region is home to major timing devices companies and with the increasing product launches the market is expected to witness significant growth in the coming years.
