Abstracts

The Netherlands probiotics market is estimated to be valued at US$521.828 million and is estimated to grow at a CAGR of 5.62% to reach a market size of US$724.388 million by 2025. The demand for probiotics in the Netherlands is projected to witness a staggering increase in the coming years on account of rising awareness about the benefits of probiotics, combined with the rising health concerns amongst the public. Furthermore, increasing consumption of fast and junk foods have also positively impacted the demand for dietary supplements, which is estimated to have a positive impact on the Netherlands probiotic market during the forecast period.
