Abstracts

South America Print Labels Market is estimated to grow from US$3.149 billion in 2015 to US$4.465 billion by 2021, at a CAGR of 5.99% over the forecast period. Print labels market is expanding in the region on account of rising disposable income coupled with rapid urbanization, and increasing presence of super retail chains such as Walmart, especially in Brazil. Increasing demand for food and beverage products with innovative label design is also a key factor for the market growth. Use of pressure sensitive labels in security labels as anti-counterfeiting devices will witness a significant growing demand. Growing machinery infrastructure activity in developing regions of South America will raise the demand for in-mold labeling, thereby further fueling the growth of print labels industry in the region over the next five years.
