The emerging therapeutic class of antibody-drug conjugates (ADC) is coming of age. Two approved and marketed ADC drugs utilizing each one of the two major technologies (auristatin and maytansin derivatives) have paved the way for a total of further 33 ADCs in clinical studies and further six ADCs in IND enabling studies. Adcetris posted US sales of US$ 138 mln in 2012 and with the start of marketing of Kadcyra, sales of this therapeutic class are expected to reach blockbuster size. New linker and toxic payload technologies are being developed and the first representative ADCs from the new technologies are approaching clinical proof of concept testing.

The report includes a compilation of currently active projects in research and development of antibody-drug conjugates and other immunoconjugates in oncology. In addition, the report lists company-specific R&D pipelines of antibody-drug conjugates. Competitor projects are listed in a tabular format providing information on:

Drug Codes,

Target / Mechanism of Action,

Class of Compound,

Company,

Product Category,

Indication,

R&D Stage and
