Abstracts

China food and beverage market size is poised to report strong growth rate over the forecast period due to increasing population, rising disposable incomes, coupled with changing trends and product innovations. On the other hand, intense government regulations, raw material price fluctuations can negatively impact the growth of the market.

The increasing number of restaurants, fast-food chains, and food delivery apps such as grub hub, caviar, and others enhance the availability to consumers, resulting in strong growth in the food and beverage industry. Besides, rising demand for organic, natural and fresh foods among consumers due to rising health awareness is the major factor expected to enhance the demand for the food and beverage market.

The food and beverage industry is one of the most essential components of several economies across the world. The 2020 global food and beverage market size is estimated to be $7 trillion. Changing consumer lifestyles and consumer preferences, growing demand for organic food products, and evolving consumption and selling patterns are the key trends in the global market.

Streamlined manufacturing processes and enhanced cold chain facilities are further supporting the market growth.

Constantly shifting trends among the consumers is the primary factor shaping the strategies of China Food and Drinks companies. Change in lifestyles, growing demand for processed and ready to eat foods has increased among the consumers, which is boosting China's food and beverages market growth.
