A radio transmitter is an electronic device which, when connected to an antenna, produces an electromagnetic signal such as in radio and television broadcasting, two way communications or radar. Heating devices, such as a microwave oven, although of similar design, are not usually called transmitters, in that they use the electromagnetic energy locally rather than transmitting it to another location.

Radio transmitter industry is relatively concentrated, manufacturers are mostly in the US and Europe. Among them, Europe output value accounted for more than 42.75% of the total output value of global radio transmitter in 2016. Harris is the world leading manufacturer in global radio transmitter market with the market share of 10.53%, in terms of revenue.

Compared to 2015, radio transmitter market increased sales by 2.90 percent to 693.77 million USD worldwide in 2016 from 674.19 million USD in 2015. It shows that the radio transmitter market performance is positive, despite the weak economic environment. With the increasing in production capacity, expected that the radio transmitter raw material price will be stable in the short term. However, the improvement of energy, transportation costs, and labor costs, will play a significant role in promoting the cost of radio transmitter.

Over the next five years, LPI(LP Information) projects that Radio Transmitter will register a 0.2% CAGR in terms of revenue, reach US$ 720 million by 2023, from US$ 710 million in 2017.
