In this report, LP Information covers the present scenario (with the base year being 2017) and the growth prospects of global Barium Carbonate market for 2018-2023. Barium carbonate, also known as witherite, is a chemical compound used in rat poison, bricks, ceramic glazes and cement. Barium carbonate has high demand from glass industry and gives luster and increase the refractive index of the glass.

The increasing demand for Barium carbonate drives the market. Barium carbonate is majorly used for manufacturing and glazing ceramic tiles since it acts as a crystallizing and matting agent which combines with specific colouring oxides to synthesise unique colours. A surge in the construction activities in the developing regions and the increasing use of tiles have influenced the market growth. Barium carbonate increases the refractive index and lustre of glass which makes it suitable for use in the glass industry. Apart from this, it is also used in the production of cathode ray tubes, optical glass, glass filters and borosilicate glass. Other factors such as increasing government expenditure on infrastructural activities, growing population, inflating disposable incomes and rising preference for a luxury lifestyle are bolstering the barium carbonate market growth across the world.

However, consumption of barium carbonate can cause convulsions, gastrointestinal disorders, muscle paralysis and tendon reflexes. Due to this, several governments in the developed countries have implemented stringent regulations on the usage of barium carbonate, thereby hampering the market growth.

Over the next five years, LPI(LP Information) projects that Barium Carbonate will register a 11.4% CAGR in terms of revenue, reach US$ 879200 million by 2023, from US$ 460000 million in 2017.
