Abstracts

The report requires updating with new data and is sent in 48 hours after order is placed.

In this report, LP Information studies the present scenario (with the base year being 2017) and the growth prospects of global Kosher Foods market for 2018-2023.

Kosher foods are those that conform to the Jewish dietary regulations of kashrut (dietary law), primarily derived from Leviticus and Deuteronomy. Food that may be consumed according to halakha(law) is termed kosher in English. Food that is not in accordance with law is called treif from Hebrew meaning 'torn'.

The classical rabbinical writers imply that milk from an animal whose meat is kosher is also kosher. As animals are considered non-kosher if after being slaughtered they are discovered to have been diseased; this could make their milk retroactively non-kosher. However, by adhering to the principle that the majority case overrules the exception, Jewish tradition continues to regard such milk as kosher, since statistically it is true that most animals producing such milk are kosher; the same principle is not applied to the possibility of consuming meat from an animal which has not been checked for disease.

Over the next five years, LPI(LP Information) projects that Kosher Foods will register a xx% CAGR in terms of revenue, reach US$ xx million by 2023, from US$ xx million in 2017.
