In this report, LP Information covers the present scenario (with the base year being 2017) and the growth prospects of global Nitric Oxide Therapy System market for 2018-2023.

Inhaled nitric oxide therapy is successful in treating ARDS, PPH, and PPHN because it reduces pulmonary artery pressure and vasodilates the blood vessels in the ventilated regions of the lung

Durability and lightweight are the meritorious features that increase the demand for portable nitric oxide therapy systems. Relatively low cost, versatility and easy fabrication of the auxiliary holding devices with the main ventilation unit makes fixed nitric oxide therapy systems a lucrative option in the ambulatory care and hospitals.

Hospitals and clinics widely utilize the nitric oxide inhalation therapy in the neonate and intensive care unit to address ailments related to pulmonary disorders and increasing demand for pediatric cardiopulmonary bypass surgery procedures for treating cardiopulmonary ailments. Homecare settings finds huge application of nitric oxide therapy systems for the rehabilitation of geriatric patients suffering with acute respiratory distress syndrome.

North America is the market leader in nitric oxide therapy systems due to the rising prevalence of acute respiratory distress syndrome in the adult population and the presence of key players actively engaged in the manufacturing of nitric oxide therapy systems. Asia Pacific will dominate the market in the near future on account of the rising prevalence of neonate pulmonary hypertension. Competitive market formed due to the emergence of local providers of nitric oxide therapy systems contribute to the growth of Asia Pacific market.

Over the next five years, LPI(LP Information) projects that Nitric Oxide Therapy System will register a 5.3% CAGR in terms of revenue, reach US$ 34 million by 2023, from US$ 25 million in 2017.
