Abstracts

The report requires updating with new data and is sent in 48 hours after order is placed.

In this report, LP Information covers the present scenario (with the base year being 2017) and the growth prospects of global Stationery market for 2018-2023.

Stationery is a mass noun referring to commercially manufactured writing materials, including cut paper, envelopes, writing implements, continuous stationery and other supplies. Stationery includes writing instrument, paper products, office stationery and other stationery.

The Indian stationery industry is highly scattered and is largely dominated by the unorganised sector and the situation is quite alarming for the organised players industry. Factors like lack of modern production facilities, unorganised nature of functioning, marginal demands, government policies and international competition are largely contributing to the slow growth of the organised stationery industry in India.

However, the industry is now showing signs of organised growth, as a result of tremendous increase in the demand for the stationery products in India. This demand can be attributed to the entry of a large number of international brands in India.

The industry is a mature one, which has entered the post-competition phase into a brand-creating era, whereby competition will turn from pure price competition to multi-faceted brand competition consisting of service, management and shopping environment.

On the basis of type of utility, the Stationery market is segmented into writing instrument, paper, office stationery and other type. The paper segment is expected to account for the largest share of the India market in 2017.

Over the next five years, LPI(LP Information) projects that Stationery will register a xx% CAGR in terms of revenue, reach US$ xx million by 2023, from US$ xx million in 2017.

This report presents a comprehensive overview, market shares, and growth opportunities of Stationery market by product type, application, key manufacturers and key regions.
