The global AgriTech Legal Service market size is predicted to grow from US$ 179 million in 2025 to US$ 268 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 5.9% from 2026 to 2032.

AgriTech Legal Service provides professional legal support to agricultural entities across the entire chain of agricultural technology research, development, transformation, and application. Its clients include agricultural research institutions, technology-based agricultural enterprises, farmers, and agricultural technology extension organizations. Services include agricultural intellectual property protection, drafting and dispute resolution of technology transfer contracts, compliance review of agricultural technology extension, policy interpretation and application for agricultural technology projects, and legal risk control for investment and financing of agricultural technology enterprises. This service focuses on the unique characteristics of the agricultural technology field, ensuring the legal transfer and application of agricultural scientific and technological achievements, helping agricultural entities avoid legal risks in technology research and development and market promotion, and promoting the deep integration of agricultural technology and modern agricultural industries.

The global AgriTech Legal Service is accelerating its development alongside agricultural modernization and technological empowerment, exhibiting a trend of both internationalization and specialization. Europe and the United States, with their mature legal systems and technological accumulation, dominate in areas such as cross-border agricultural intellectual property protection and compliance in transnational agricultural technology cooperation, continuously innovating their service models. Demand is rapidly growing in regions such as Asia-Pacific and South America, emerging as new markets and driving the extension of services across the entire industry chain. Policy support and the demand for technology transfer are becoming the core driving forces for industry development, while technologies such as big data and artificial intelligence are empowering service efficiency improvements. Currently, the industry still faces challenges such as a shortage of multi-skilled personnel, imperfect laws and regulations in some regions, and inconsistent service quality. However, in the global process of agricultural technologization and legalization, its potential for specialization, digitalization, and globalization continues to be unleashed.
