Abstracts

The global Citron Extract market size is predicted to grow from US$ 26.55 million in 2025 to US$ 36.72 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 4.8% from 2026 to 2032.

In 2025, the global production of citron extract was approximately 1180 tons, with an average selling price of around US$23 per kilogram. The production capacity in 2025 is 1450 tons, with an average gross profit margin of approximately 20-35%. Citron extract is a brown powder substance made from the processed and extracted mature fruits of the citron plant (a member of the Rutaceae family). It is a traditional Chinese medicine with a pungent, bitter, and sour taste, acting on the liver, spleen, and lung meridians, and possessing pharmacological effects such as regulating qi, relieving bloating, and reducing phlegm.

The upstream raw materials for citron extract mainly consist of fresh or dried fruits, peels, and seeds of the citron plant, with the peel being the core source of essential oils and active ingredients. Downstream, it is widely used in high-end fragrances and flavors, natural food and beverage flavorings, functional skincare products (primarily for antioxidant and brightening effects), traditional herbal medicines, and dietary supplements (for aiding digestion and regulating qi and phlegm), and is also used in specialty cultural and creative products due to its unique aroma.

Citron extract, a natural plant extract, has been gaining increasing attention in the global market in recent years, particularly in the cosmetics, health supplements, and food and beverage industries. Citron fruit is rich in vitamin C, natural antioxidants, and essential oils, offering multiple health benefits such as antioxidant, anti-inflammatory, antibacterial, and digestive-promoting properties. This makes it an ideal ingredient for high-end skincare, nutritional supplements, and functional foods.

In the cosmetics industry, citron extract has become a key ingredient in many high-end skincare products due to its excellent whitening, anti-aging, soothing, and moisturizing effects. It is particularly popular in face masks, toners, and anti-aging products due to its natural and gentle properties. Furthermore, citron extract has widespread applications in the health supplement industry, commonly found in vitamin supplements and functional beverages as a natural antioxidant and immune booster.

With increasing consumer demand for natural, green, and healthy products, the market demand for citron extract is growing rapidly. The Asia-Pacific region, particularly China and India, as major producers of citron, provides a stable supply of raw materials. Meanwhile, the European and American markets also show strong demand for citron extract in beauty and health products. It is expected that in the coming years, with the increasing popularity of healthy lifestyles, the market for citron extract will continue to expand, especially driven by the growth of green cosmetics and natural health products, presenting a promising market outlook.
