Acoustic Batten is a building component used to improve sound insulation and reduce airborne noise transmission in construction projects. It is typically a long, narrow strip or board made from materials with sound-absorbing properties. Acoustic battens are commonly used in walls, floors, and ceilings to enhance the acoustic performance of a building.

With increasing concern for indoor environmental quality, the demand for acoustic insulation and sound absorbing materials is also growing. Acoustic Batten is widely used in many fields such as residences, commercial buildings, schools, medical facilities and entertainment venues. They can effectively reduce noise transmission, provide a more comfortable and quiet environment, and meet people's requirements for acoustic comfort.
