The global African Safaris(Safaris Tours) market size is predicted to grow from US$ 1691 million in 2025 to US$ 2775 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 7.5% from 2026 to 2032.

Hunting travel, originally referring to a type of travel for the purpose of hunting, originated from the expeditions of European hunters in the 19th century. However, with the changing times, cameras and records have gradually replaced guns and hunting, and today hunting travel has become more of a type of travel with the main purpose of watching wild animals and experiencing nature.

A notable trend in the current market is that luxury and customized experiences are becoming key growth drivers. Affluent travelers are no longer satisfied with standard itineraries and are instead seeking private safaris that offer top-notch accommodations, exclusive guides, and personalized itineraries. Furthermore, the industry is increasingly emphasizing sustainable and responsible tourism, with many programs integrating ecological conservation and support for local communities as core values ??to cater to the growing environmental awareness of modern travelers. Overall, the safari market holds great promise, exhibiting a global growth trend and increasingly focused on high-end, customized experiences and sustainable travel.
