Abstracts

According to this study, the global Air Medical Escort Services market size will reach US$ 1064 million by 2031.

Air medical escort services refers to professional medical services that provide long-distance transfer for patients who need emergency or special medical care by aircraft (such as fixed-wing aircraft and helicopters). The core of this service is to 'move' the medical equipment and professional medical team from the ground intensive care unit (ICU) or emergency center to the air, continuously monitor and treat patients during transportation, and ensure seamless medical care from departure to destination. This service is usually provided by aviation medical rescue agencies, professional airlines or hospitals, and is suitable for cross-regional critical care transfer, cross-border medical evacuation and other scenarios.

United States market for Air Medical Escort Services is estimated to increase from US$ million in 2024 to US$ million by 2031, at a CAGR of % from 2025 through 2031.

China market for Air Medical Escort Services is estimated to increase from US$ million in 2024 to US$ million by 2031, at a CAGR of % from 2025 through 2031.

Europe market for Air Medical Escort Services is estimated to increase from US$ million in 2024 to US$ million by 2031, at a CAGR of % from 2025 through 2031.
