The global Alcohol-Infused Ice Creams market size is predicted to grow from US$ 874 million in 2025 to US$ 1262 million in 2031; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 6.3% from 2025 to 2031.

Alcohol-Infused ice cream is ice cream that contains alcohol.

Alcoholic ice cream is made with a range of alcoholic beverages, including beer, rum, whiskey, and more. Alcoholic ice cream has recently become popular in the international market, and the companies that produce it have been well received by many customers. Moreover, customers can now indulge in their favorite alcoholic beverages outside of bars and restaurants with the help of alcoholic ice cream. The low alcohol category will hold a significant share in the global alcoholic ice cream market. Low-alcohol ice cream has become one of the most popular product categories for ice cream companies due to its potential to be served on birthdays, anniversaries, weddings and other special events. The alcohol content is less than 0.75%. Although it lacks the intoxicating properties of alcoholic beverages, it still has a flavor or aroma suitable for both adults and children in small doses. When participating in outdoor activities such as picnics and camping trips, customers can benefit from the product in various package sizes, which is one of the major factors driving the growth of the alcoholic ice cream market.
